Years Ago

By C. M.

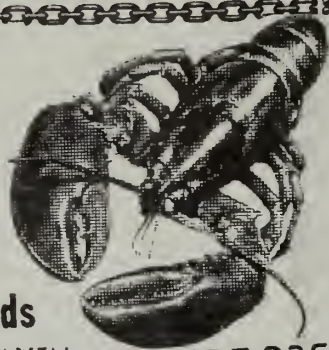

The recent attractive renovation of the Tuttle house on Water Street at the foot of Barstow Street reminds us that the other large old house across Barstow Street from it is almost its identical twin, and that for years they belonged to father and son shipmasters: Captain Samuel Sturtevant and his son, Captain Samuel Sturtevant, Jr. These two men engaged in shipping at Mattapoisett all their lives as shipowners, ship agents, and ship captains, as well as in numerous other activities.

The first we hear of Captain Sturtevant, Sr. is his marriage with Lydia Pease in 1799 and the birth of his son Samuel, Jr. two years later. The 1790's and 1800's saw the first expansion of Mattapoisett Village and its shipyards, "ye lower New Towne," as it was called by the citizens in Hammondtown up at the Herring Weir. Captain Sturtevant probably came from Middleboro or Plymouth, where the name was a common one; he was evidently following the crowd in coming to a bustling seaport town just starting to thrive.

Seafaring was not his only, or perhaps not even his chief trade in his earlier years, for the first record of his business ventures appeared in the New Bedford Columbian Courier for October 23,

GRANGE FAIR

Mattapoisett Grange Fair will be open to the public at 1 o'clock P.M. Saturday, August 28th, in the Grange Hall.

The hall will be open all the forenoon for the public and members to place their exhibits. Anyone wishing to exhibit vegetables, flowers,
canning and sewing must have them in place
by 12 o'clock. The hall will be closed for judging. Premium lists can be obtained from Leonard Randall, Otto Kellish or Mildred LeBaron.

Any boys and girls under 14 years of age may exhibit under Juniors. Juniors may also enter a bird house. The best house judged will receive a first prize of $1.00 and second prize of 50¢. Only one entry may be made in each class
Several awards will be made.

A nice selection of gift articles will be on sale
on the apron and fancy work table, presided over by Mrs. Walter Vaughn and members of her committee.

There will also be a food table with Mrs. Helmuth Heuberger, Jr. and her committee to serve you, and don't forget to stop at the white elephant table with many choice articles arranged
by Mrs. Joseph Furtado and Mrs. Edward Toolis

The flower exhibit will be arranged by Mrs.
Otto Kellish, and the vegetables by the men of the Fair Committee. This is just part of the at-

YEARS AGO Continued from Cover
1801: Adv. "The Clothier's Business continued to be carried on as usual, in all its branches, by Samuel Sturtevant at Mattapoisett, in Rochester." And three years later, in 1804, the following For Sale advertisement appeared 5 times in the same newspaper: "A FULLING MILL with a sufficient water privilege, and all the apparatus necessary for carrying on the Clothier's Business, situated at Mattapoisett, in Rochester, near Mr. Noah Hammond's. For further particulars apply to Samuel Sturtevant."

"Near Mr. Noah Hammond's" would place the site of the fulling mill on the River near the Jack Nunes' place--which was Noah Hammond's.

It was probably around this time that Captain Sturtevant built his big house on Water Street. It faced the shore on the busy waterfront street, so that either way he looked he could see half-constructed hulls in the stocks of the shipyards and tall masts of the vessels at anchor or along the wharves. The house is a fine old two and a half story building, with a long ell, as high and wide as the main house, extending a great distance to rear. This tremendous ell, which may have been added on later, was undoubtedly used for the storage of ship's gear and cargo.

For Captain Sturtevant spent most of his life in the coastwise trade. He started immediately after the War of 1812 ended, being master of the Sloop Nancy in 1816 and the Sloop Amelia,

JUNIOR GRANGE FAIR

The annual Penny Fair conducted by the Mattapoisett Junior Grange was held on the Grange grounds last Friday afternoon. This was another successful venture by the Juniors. The master, William Sylvia, was general chairman, and was assisted by the following chairman: Joseph Alves and George LeBlanc, white elephants; Susan Silva and John Alves, food; Dale Fearing and Alan Hickey, rummage; Mark Breton, comic books; Dorothy Wheeler and Kathy Costa, plants and flowers; Mark Harris and Neil Sylvia, vegetables; Joann Silva, grabs; Harlene Fearing, balloons; Betty Ann and Gail Bauer, punch. Hot dogs were made and served by Mrs. Howard Bates.

The worthy master, William Sylvia, thanks all who helped him on the success of the Fair.

wise trade with all Atlantic ports and those of the West Indies was enormous, and a man of ability, character--and blessed with some good luck--could accumulate a comfortable sum
 In fact, some of the shipbuilders themselves seemed to have made more money by their coasting trade than by their shipyards.

Samuel, Jr., like all Mattapoisett boys of his day, evidently went to sea at an early age, for when he was 24 he was master and part owner of the Schooner Sophronia, newly launched (1825)
 from the yard of G. Barstow & Son. The schooner was named, obviously, after his wife of two years, Sophronia Sturtevant of Plympton.

Without searching the records at the Registry of Deeds, we don't know when his house was built, whether he bought it some years after it was built, or whether he deliberately duplicated
 his father's house, the two separated only by a narrow side street.

He captained the Sophronia for only a year or two, changing to the Sloop Mary, 46 tons, which he seems to have captained for more than a doze years, and the Schooner Lexington. This was a lucky move, for her new owner outfitted the Soph
ronia for whaling, and she was lost at sea on her second voyage.

Meanwhile Captain Samuel Jr. was investing
 his money in whaleships and whaling voyages.
 For several years he was the business agent for

Rochester he was Town Treasurer and Collector of Taxes; he was an active officer in the Congregational Church; he was a heavy contributor to the present beautiful church building; and in 1857 he was elected a trustee for the newly formed Mattapoisett Academy.

All of these he achieved. But when years ago when the present author asked an aged man what he could remember about Captain Sturtevant, all the old gentleman could recall was that in an accident one of the captain's eyes had been put out and he always wore a tube in it.

But his and his father's houses continue to grace the waterfront street of our village.

SIDEWALK ART SHOW

Probably the youngest artist to exhibit in Marion Art Center's Sidewalk Art Show will be Marsha Mendes of Marion, age 4. Her work is considered promising enough to be acceptable, and will be displayed along with that of students, artists, part time amateurs, and full time professionals. Most paintings and all crafts will be for sale. Show runs from August 19th to 22nd. The public is invited and admission is free.

supper. The fair chairman, Leonard Randall, and the committee will discuss the final plans for the Fair August 28th. A nice program has been planned to conclude the evening.

HUNTER SAFETY COURSE

The Mattapoissett Fin, Fur and Feather Club Inc. announces that a hunter safety course for minors between the ages of 15 and 17 inclusive will be conducted at its Crystal Springs Road clubhouse during the month of September.

The primary purpose of the course will be to furnish proper instruction, in the safe methods of handling firearms. Material such as shot and shot loads, shooter - landowner relationships, knowledge of hunting laws, the ten commandments of gun safety, and good sportsmanship in general, are also covered in the training program.

Graduates of the course will be issued a certificate of competency with firearms from the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources, Division of Law Enforcement, and they will be eligible to hunt without the presence of an adult.

F.F.F. certified N.R.A. Hunter Safety Course instructors, Thomas D. Carr, Ed Gonsalves, lawns, shrubbery, landscaping and such; to the point that it stands out, and is what any town should be proud of.

Isn't it a pity that such a well manicured section of town should be subject to the thoughtless "weekend dumpers" who overload their trailers, ranch wagons and trucks to such an extent that, papers and cut limbs and other rubbish fall off or are blown off across these citizens' property, which no doubt after a while becomes quite irritating to all in this area.

So, why not think of others for a minute and throw a "tarp" or tie down your load, cover your barrels, roll up your rear windows of your wagon, tie down your trunk or otherwise secure your load, or even go to the extent of making two trips.

I'm sure if the situation was reversed there would be quite a stir.

So, all who live on the beaches, in the center or anywhere else, please show a little consideration and thank you.

J. Field,
Agent, Board of Health.

SPORTSMANSHIP NIGHT

The annual Capeway Little League Sports Night was held at the V.F.W. Hall in Marion on Saturday night, August 14th. Claude Ellis, chairman of the Marion Recreation Directors and president of the Capeway Little League Association, welcomed the boys of the Capeway League which includes the towns of Marion, Mattapoissett and Rochester, and their parents. He then introduced the M.C. for the evening, Pip Perry, who is a resident of Marion and a scout for the Kansas City Athletics.

Mr. Perry introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Dominic DiMaggio, who played center field for the Boston Red Sox for thirteen years. Mr. DiMaggio is also a navy veteran of World War II.

Mr. DiMaggio related several of his experiences as a professional baseball player. He stressed good sportsmanship; however, he told the boys to play to win.

Mr. DiMaggio, assisted by Mr. Perry, awarded the Warren Doane Memorial trophy to the Rochester Royals, Capeway League champions, and Coach George Knight accepted the trophy
